

Children to witness 'Santa Claus World'

WESTHAVEN — The Westhaven Jaycees will treat area children to a showing of "The Wonderful World of Santa Claus," on Saturday, Dec. 16. A chartered bus, provided by the Jaycees, will transport the children from 167th Street and Highview Avenue, at noon, to East Leydon High School for the Saturday performance.

Tickets are being supplied, free of charge, by representatives of the Jaycees. However, before a child may board the bus, he must submit, in addition to the ticket, a permission slip signed by his parents.

Children will return home on the bus around 5:30 p.m. Program will include cartoons and live holiday entertainment. It will be produced by the Leydon Jaycees.

"A special visit from Santa Claus will highlight the program," said director Ken McCrackin. "Normal attendance at the Christmas party is more than 1,000," he added.

The Jaycees also are sponsoring a Christmas Decorating Contest, to be judged Dec. 17 by the Tinley Park Jaycees. First prize will be a walnut plaque, engraved with the winner's name, and a $25.00 savings bond. A holiday center piece will be awarded the second place winner.

Westhaven Jaycees and their families are not eligible to enter the contest. Chairman of the event is Mel Shepperd.

A special "man and wife" program has been scheduled for Monday, Dec. 18. The North East Region Jaycees will discuss "What Are the Jaycees and What Can They Do for You?" Representatives of the organization will answer questions, and further information will be available at that time.

This program will serve as the membership drive "kick-off." Meeting will be held at the Baptist Church, 16833 Hobart, at 8:30 p.m.

State director Ken McCrackin has extended a special note of thanks to all Westhaven families who attended the charter night dinner Dance recently. According to McCrackin, 116 persons attended, at $15.00 per couple.

"We usually just hope to break even at these affairs," McCrackin, "but this time we managed to realize a $250.00 profit. We're extremely grateful to all who attended, and helped to make the dinner such a success."

Westhaven Jaycees also are sponsoring a letter-to-Santa project, and have promised to see that all letters the children write to Santa will be answered. Letters should be addressed to Santa, Post Office Box 213, Westhaven, Ill. 60477.

Boosters announce BYO party to welcome 1973

NEW LENOX — Providence High School Booster Club will sponsor its annual New Year's Eve Dance-Party on Sunday, Dec. 31, in the high school gymnasium, 3400 E. Lincoln Highway, New Lenox.

Dinner will begin at 9:30 p.m.; dance music by Bill Gerald's eighteen-piece orchestra will be provided from 10 p.m. until 2 a.m. The band will be under the direction of Gerald Linich.

Guests will receive an assortment of noise-makers and party-favors. Refreshments will be available; however, guests must supply their own liquor.

Tickets are available from party

ID program to deter Westhaven thievery

WESTHAVEN — Operation Identification which is a Westhaven Homeowners Association project is now in effect in the Village of Westhaven.

The new project works like this: An electric engraving tool is made available to any family wishing to participate in this program. With this tool a person can engrave his driver's license number on any valuables which thieves are most likely to steal.

A decal is also provided to place in the window in the front of the house or on the front door which warns burglars that your valuables are marked and traceable. Thieves therefore are less likely to steal articles that are traceable, because there is no market for such items.

There will be no cost to the residents of Westhaven for the use of the tools or the decal. The homeowners Association encourages every resident in the village to participate in this program. Decals will be made available when residents pick up the engraving tool.

The engraving tool will be made available on a one-day-at-a-time basis so as to allow all villagers to mark their valuables as quickly as possible.

There is now a reservation list working. In order to reserve the engraving tool, residents are to call Larry Mueller at 349-8827. Complete instructions will be made available when the materials are picked up.

This was a project of past president Ray Westberg. President Terry Poia urges all villagers to participate. "This project can make Westhaven a lot safer place if everyone participates in the program," Poia says.

Musicians to perform

ORLAND PARK — Carl Sandburg High School Free Christmas Concert will be held Sunday, Dec. 17, at 3 p.m. in the Commons. Performing in this concert will be the Treble Clef girls, the Concert Orchestra and the Concert Choir.

Directing the Treble Clefs, Wayne Doverspike will lead the group in some of the more familiar Christmas Carols such as "What Child Is This?" and "Bring A Torch Jeanette Isabella". They also will perform a Swedish Cradle song of the Christmas season.

As is becoming the custom at the Annual Free Christmas Concert, past graduates of Carl Sandburg Concert Choirs are invited to come up on stage.

Outdoor education films termed 'treat'

ORLAND PARK — School District 135 board members Monday night were treated to films of outdoor education camp-outs conducted by the Science Department since spring 1972.

Mrs. Jean Smith, science teacher at Orland Junior High, and James Callahan, principal, went over not only the general concept of outdoor education, but the benefits to student-teacher relations. "Many youngsters here don't know what's going on outside their four walls," said Callahan. This teaching project provides not only an introduction to the outdoors, but also provides an in-depth study of ecology, plant, insect and animal studies which take place in natural surroundings.

Mrs. Smith noted that the teacher gets to know her students in a new way after spending two days camping out with them. And, the students appear to gain new knowledge of their teachers and of other students as well.

Approval was given by the board to form a study group to investigate this type of program more fully and to expand it according to district needs.

In other business at the Dec. 11 meeting, Lee Harbison, Building Committee chairman, informed the board that bids for the Junior High classroom and gymnasium additions were not completed. Four bids were rejected by the Capitol Development Board, formerly the School Building Commission. The Development Board, a state agency which dispenses funds for school physical facilities on the basis of a 22.05 square foot Budget, had allowed $358,000 for the additions. The bids overshot by $30,000.

Still to be accepted are general contractor and electrical contractor bids. Bids will be opened on Dec. 21 in Springfield.

Norbert Jerling, superintendent of District 135 presented the board with summaries of Senate Bill 1492, which is currently in the courts being contested by possibly the Attorney General.

The bill has been passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor; it provides that non-public schools be given the same services as the public schools within a district. Jerling noted that this does not affect the school district now, but certainly is a future consideration.

Jan. 8 has been set for an educational meeting during which the board will review aspects of community information to be disseminated via PTA Newsletter and a telephone answering service that will go into effect after the first of the year. The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Administrative Center, 151st Street and 94th Avenue, Orland Park.

Children in Fernway guests at holiday party

ORLAND PARK — The Fernway Improvement Association has completed plans for its 1972 Christmas Party for local area children, ages 1 through 12, on Sunday, Dec. 17, at the Fernway School, 166th Street and 88th Ave., between 1 p.m. and 3 p.m.

According to Mrs. Patricia Rath, Fernway Improvement Association, secretary, admission is free for children of members of the association. However, children of Fernway residents who are not members of the FIA must pay 50 cents each.

Mrs. Rath said that most residents have been called and invited to the affair. However, those who have not been called were not intentionally omitted. Those phone numbers were not available, Mrs. Rath said. Additional information can be obtained through the secretary at 532-5134.

Special feature at the event will be a visit from Santa Claus. Also, each child will receive a gift and candy canes.

Mrs. Rath said that the judging of the Christmas Lights Decorating Contest will take place on Sunday, Dec. 17, from 6:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. Entrants must have the Christmas lights on and decorating completed prior to the judging.

Prizes include $25.00, first place; $15.00, second place; and $10.00, third place.

Central stage scene of tonight's musical

TINLEY PARK — Central Junior High School will resound Wednesday evening, Dec. 13, with musical overtures from clarinets, flutes, trombones, bells, obos, etc. as the school stages its annual Christmas concert.

The public is cordially invited to attend the performance beginning at 8 p.m. in the school gym 17248 67th Avenue.

Given under the direction of Arthur Bechmann with school District 146 as band-orchestra director for six years and Mrs. Karen Lancaster, music teacher with Central School for five years, the production will include renditions from both a beginners' band and a symphonic band made up of pupils from all schools in District 146: Bert Fulton, Walter F. Fierke, Memorial, Sandridge and Central Jr. High.

Additionally the voices of nearly 50 Central Junior High School girls will join in lyrical tones to offer numbers: Santa Claus is Coming to Town, A Very Merry Christmas, The Virgin's Slumber Sone, Sanctus (Holy is the Lord), and A Merry Christmas.

Prior to and following the concert the Music Parents Club will sponsor a bake sale, the proceeds to be used for the many extras needed by students of an active Music Department.

Sandburg students to present holiday program for club

ORLAND PARK — The December meeting of the Orland Park Woman's Club will be held at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 20, at the Community Center Foundation, 127th Street and Southwest Highway.

A covered dish luncheon is planned with guests joining the women for the day's activities.

A program of Christmas music will be given by the Carl Sandburg High School choir led by Wayne Doverspike, music director.

At Christ Lutheran

Carillons, carols welcome yule

ORLAND PARK — Some things have to be seen to be believed, and some have to be heard to be appreciated. The latter is true of the carillon in the bell tower of the Christ Lutheran Church at 147th and 94th Avenue.

A gift of the Ladies Aid Society the $3,600 electronic bell instrument is set by clock to strike at 9 a.m. and at 8 p.m. In addition it strikes the call to service on Wednesdays and Sundays, and can be hand set for weddings and funerals.

The carillon has an additional feature in accommodating a tape which can be set at specific times.

As a special observance of the Advent Season the carillon will play selections from 24 different Christmas hymns throughout the season. At 6 o'clock each evening and at 12:30 p.m. on Sunday a selection of four old English, German, French and traditional folksongs will sound out over a mile radius from the church. Pastor Walter Ledogar said the area for hearing of the bells depends on the weather conditions.

The first selections of Christmas music were played Sunday, Dec. 3, to mark the first Sunday of Advent.

During Lent appropriate hymns also will be played from a tape donated by the Michael Pihl Family.

Pastor Ledogar said he has received very favorable comments from the people living in the vicinity of the bells. He added that to his knowledge only the Community Foundation Chapel on Southwest Highway in Palos Park has a similar carillon although St. Michael Church in Orland Park does have a set of church bells.

The story of the bells involves the inventor of the "Arcadian" ball instrument, George Schulerich. He developed an electro-mechanical five-foot instrument using tiny rods of bronze struck by hammers. These rods are tuned to within 1-20th of one percent of perfect pitch with the tonal equivalent of a cast bell weighing 6½ tons.

When first struck the tone is almost inaudible to the human ear but is amplified over one million times electronically. A 671 bell carillon built for Expo 67 musically dwarfed the world's largest cast carillon, the 74 bell carillon in Riverside Church in New York City.

The uniqueness of the bell system made it slow to catch on until the late Father Flanagan installed the system in Boystown. With so many visitors thrilling to the bell sound sales increased until now there are over 8,000 Schulerich bells installed throughout the World.

Among them are the carillons at Arlington National Cemetery, the USS Arizona at Pearl Harbor, the chapel honoring the men who died in the sinking of the Thresher, and the City of San Pablo, Calif.

O'Donnell receives first okay

ORLAND PARK — Village planners Tuesday night approved plans by O'Donnell Enterprises for enlargement of recreational facilities on the site of the Riviera Swim Club. However, in accepting the plan the commission made some qualifications.

The commission is asking O'Donnell to return with another plat survey showing a layout of the whole property, the proposed entrance and exit, plans for parking accommodations and a general layout of future plans for the empty acreage.

Several members expressed the concern over what might conceivably be built on the land in the future. O'Donnell is now asking for annexation of the property as a recreational and commercial site with no type of residential zoning. Discussion arose over the entrance and exit when members considered the amount of traffic that will be entering 143rd Street as a result of future developments.

In accepting the O'Donnell plan with qualifications, the commission members were unanimous in terming the facility a plus for the community.

In another matter, approval was given George and Ted Mitchell to proceed with the necessary steps to open a flower shop in the building on the southeast corner of 143rd and Beacon Streets. The building will remain essentially the same with a one floor commercial zoning.

The owners, who hope to be open in the spring, will replace sidewalks and do necessary grading to build a suitable parking area on the lot north of the building.

Although other property in the area is B-residential, the village board is on record as indicating all property on 143rd Street will go commercial.

Riviera hearing Dec. 18

ORLAND PARK — A public hearing will be held Dec. 18 to consider rezoning and annexation of the 40 acres owned by O'Donnell Enterprises. The site is the former Riviera Swim Club at 143rd Street and about 89th Avenue.

The hearing will be held by the Orland Park Zoning Board of Appeals at 8 p.m. in the village hall.

The Zoning Board of Appeals will consider an amendment to the present Zoning Ordinance. If approved, upon annexation, the 40 acres would be classified as within Class C commercial subject to a Special Use, Planned Development, and added to the Zone Map as such.

O'Donnell plans over 12 major improvements including a large Sports Complex. Indoor tennis and handball courts, health spas for men and women, an additional indoor-outdoor pool, saunas, sportswear shop, nine-hole pitch and putt golf course and a dining room are among the many additions planned.

The club will continue to operate as a private club geared to every member of a family group.

Jaycees begin 'search'

ORLAND PARK — A three-month membership contest has been launched by the Jaycee Chapter with Andy Nyiri as chairman. The contest is to close Feb. 8, the day before the young chapter's charter night celebration.

There will be three awards made during the contest. They will go to the member bringing in the most new members before the Dec. 19 meeting, before the Jan. 23 meeting and before Feb. 8.

All new members will be sworn in on charter night and their Jaycee pins will be presented at that time.

The Jaycees will meet Tuesday, Dec. 19, this month due to Christmas. However, the organization usually meets the fourth Tuesday of each month at the new Administration Building.

Young men between the ages of 28 and 35 are invited to attend the Dec. 19 meeting and learn more about the Jaycee organization.

Ray Gamel is heading the committee making arrangements for the Friday, Feb. 9, charter night. The event will be held at the Orland Chateau with the Oak Forest Jaycees sponsoring the banquet. The Oak Forest chapter extended the Orland organization.

Mice tales

‘Mouse to mouse’ resuscitation

By JEAN WILLE

Once upon a time there was a little grey mouse named Timmy. Timmy was born in Northern Illinois. Like most little mice, Timmy often became curious and would get into trouble.

One day, all the little mice from northern Illinois were playing in a field near the county mouse house. They were tearing around, chasing each other and just having a glorious time nipping at each others tails. Timmy stopped to rest for a minute and then he saw it. A big white truck. Timmy had never seen such a big truck before.

"I wonder what is in that big white truck," he squeaked to his cousin, Jamie.

Jamie didn't answer his cousin. He knew there were newspapers in the truck. But, Jamie had a little lisp and sometimes the other mice would make fun of him. He knew Timmy would not laugh at him because Timmy was his favorite cousin, but there were other cousins near by and they always teased him when he said "thqueak" instead of "squeak."

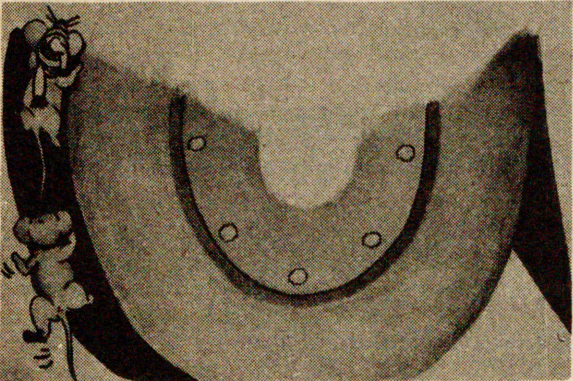

Jamie liked newspapers. Newspapers were friendly to little mice. A mouse could curl up in a newspaper when it was cold outside and the paper would keep him warm. Newspapers kept the wind away. But, Jamie also knew that big white trucks were not friendly to little mice. He had seen a friend hurt by a big white truck when it ran over the friend's tail.

Timmy continued to creep closer to the truck. Soon he was right next to one of the huge black tires. All he could see was lots of gigantic "shoes" that probably belonged to those gruff voices. The "shoes" kept stomping back and forth. The "shoes" must be putting something in the truck.

Jamie stayed close to Timmy. Jamie was afraid. He was two weeks older than Timmy and he knew all the bad things that could happen to curious little mice.

The "shoes" kept loading the truck and yelling at other "shoes." Timmy heard a loud 'bang' as the tail gate was slammed shut.

Timmy's little pink nose kept twitching with curiosity. Oh, how much he wanted to climb up that tire and peek inside the white truck.

He slowly inched his way up the tire with Jamie clinging to his thin, bristly-haired tail. Jamie was trying to pull him back down but Timmy was very determined. Up, up, up he went. Up the tire and then he was perched on top of the tail gate with Jamie still clinging to his tail.

KERPLOB. Timmy dropped from the tail gate into the truck dragging Jamie with him. The truck vibrated as "Shoes" slammed and bolted the huge doors.

Jamie was "thqueaking" loudly as he stood on his two tiny hind legs and tried to tell Timmy of the danger facing them. He knew they were not supposed to be in the truck, but Timmy just kept scampering and skittering over the piles of newspapers.

Suddenly Timmy halted. Something was happening. He felt very strange. He thought he must be moving but he knew his feet were not moving and Jamie was not moving. Maybe it was the truck that was moving. That was it. The big white truck was moving and he and Jamie were still inside.

Timmy began to cry and the quivering tears clung to his wee whiskers. He felt so sad. This was all his fault. Jamie was in trouble, too, and all because he just had to see what was in this 'dumb' old truck.

The ride grew bumpier and the two cousins huddled close together. It was so dark and cold. Timmie could feel Jamie trembling.

Timmy began to think about the crumb of bread he had been saving for their supper. He had planned on surprising Jamie. Now it was far away and he and Jamie would probably never eat again.

He crawled away from Jamie and climbed up on a pile of papers to peek out a little hole. Outside it was getting dark and Timmy had trouble keeping his balance against the cold wind blowing through the hole. He crawled back to where Jamie lay whimpering and curled up next to him.

The two little mice were jolted as the truck came to a stop.

He heard the gruff voices again. Timmy scampered to the rear of the truck. He didn't care about anything except getting out of the truck with Jamie.

The inside of the truck was quickly whipped with a blast of freezing air as the men opened the big doors.

Timmy leaped onto the tail gate and dropped to the ground. Jamie almost passed him up all four little legs nervously treading air.

The two frightened cousins ran toward a building and into a small hole leading into the messiest room that Timmy had ever seen. There were more newspapers here than there had been in the truck. There were two "shoes" talking.

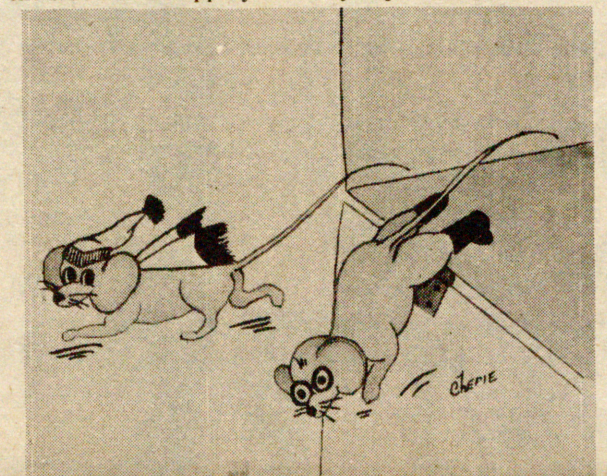

The "shoes" were getting ready to leave and as the lights went off, Timmy heard the door open and then close. Well, at least it was warmer here than it had been in the truck, Timmy thought.

But it was just as frightening. The truck had been dark and bumpy. This room had a street light shining through the window and it made strange shadows on the floor. Timmy was afraid of shadows.

Jamie was crying, again, but Timmy could not see him anywhere. His lisp "thqueak" sound so far away. Timmy ran around the room and as he came close to a wastebasket, Jamie's "thqueak" grew louder.

Timmy ran up the side of the wastebasket and tumbled inside. He landed right on top of Jamie.

They tried so hard to climb out of the wastebasket but the sides were slippery and they kept sliding back down.

"We're going to die in here," thqueaked Jamie.

"No, we won't," answered Timmy. "They have to empty this basket sometime and then we can get out."

Timmy began to sniff with his twitchy nose to see if maybe someone had thrown a little food into the wastebasket, but there was nothing that smelled very good. The only things in the basket were crumbled up papers, and a wad of sticky gum. The wastebasket didn't have anymore food than the truck and his tummy was so empty it began to growl.

Jamie and Timmy drew closer together and after a short while Timmy realized that Jamie was snoring. Well, he thought, let the poor little fellow sleep, there certainly isn't anything else to do until someone lets us out of here.

Timmy became very drowsy and soon he was half way into slumber land himself. Just as he was dropping off to sleep he heard the door open and a light was turned on. He heard more "shoes" coming closer. He laid very still but Jamie awoke and when he heard the "shoes," he began to shake and rattle the papers in the wastebasket.

A man's face peered into the basket. The face had black, beady eyes and a droopy mustache. The mean face disappeared.

A few minutes later the "face" was back and a "hand" was reaching into the basket. There was something in the hand. It was a piece of bread and Timmy and Jamie quickly began to nibble. Oh, it tasted so good. This was the best bread Timmy had ever tasted. Soon his little tummy stopped growling and as if the man knew what they wanted, there appeared a little bottle cap with some water in it.

A few seconds later the basket began to move.

Timmy was puzzled. He felt cold air again and he realized that the man was carrying the basket outside. He felt himself slipping and then with a thud he was thrown on the ground.

He started to run and when he remembered Jamie, he turned around. Jamie wasn't there. Maybe he was still in the basket. Maybe he had gotten stuck to the basket with the wad of chewing gum. The man probably took the wastebasket back into the office and Jamie was caught inside again.

Timmy ran toward the little hole and within seconds he was inside the room.

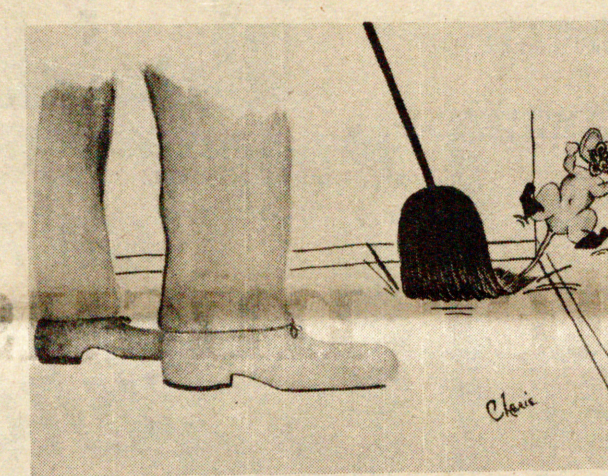

"Thqueak, Thqueak, thqueak," he heard Jamie frantically wailing.

The "shoes" had Jamie in a corner and he was trying to hit him with a broom. Jamie ran back and forth trying to avoid the stiff needles that were being thrust at him.

Timmy couldn't believe it. How could "shoes" be so mean when "hand" had given them food and water.

He realized that there wasn't time to figure out why. "shoes" was scaring Jamie. He scampered over to the man and bit "shoes" on the ankle. The broom clattered to the floor and "shoes" began stomping around. Timmy and Jamie ran for the little hole, toward freedom.

Eight small feet ran and ran across the open field until Jamie stopped. The little guy just had to rest — he was huffing and puffing so hard that Timmy thought he might be sick.

Timmy dragged some dry, brittle bits of leaves over to where Jamie lay and piled them up against his cousin's exhausted body. Then he laid down next to Jamie and started to sing a soft song that his mother had taught him. The song was about love and being warm all over. It was about feathers and cheese and lots of things that baby mice like.

Jamie stopped puffing and started to breathe more evenly as he quietly dozed off into mouse dreamland.

Timmy glanced up at the bright stars and snuggled closer to his cousin.

Somehow or other, he thought, we'll be all right. I can take care of Jamie. I'll find some food tomorrow. I know there are other nice people in this world. Just because that one man is all mixed up about caring doesn't mean everyone is mixed up.

As the two cousins lay sleeping, bells began to tinkle. The happy jingling rhythm grew closer and closer until the little mice awoke.

Suddenly there was another face peering down at them. But this face looked nice. A large "hand" reached down and picked them up, ever so carefully. The "hand" held Timmy and Jamie close to his "face," and Timmy could feel warm breath seeping through "face's" bushy, white beard. The beard looked feathery and clean.

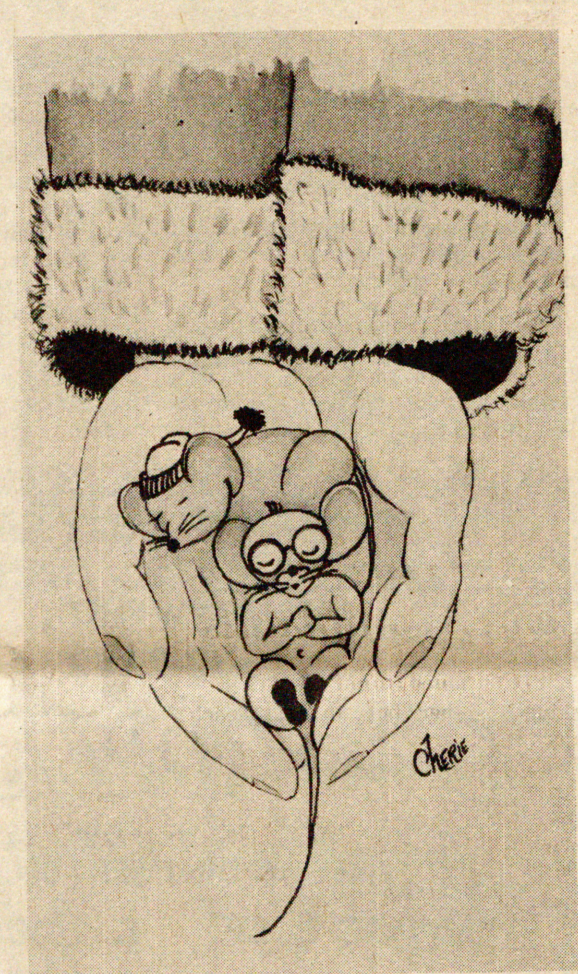

The next thing they knew, they were being wrapped in a fluffy blanket and once more they were moving along. Only this time, the ride was smooth and they seemed to be gliding.

When Timmy peeked out from the blanket, he realized that they were no longer on the ground. They were flying along in an open box that looked like a big ice skate. And "nice face" was sitting along side of them.

Eight of the biggest mice that Timmy had ever seen were flying in the air and pulling the box behind them. Everything was so beautiful. The moon and the stars were sparkling like fresh snow.

Timmy didn't know where they were going but somehow he sensed that "nice face" would take care of them.

Yes he thought to himself, we'll be all right. I guess there is always someone who cares — even if you're just a little grey gouse.

On second thought

PCB says no, no to CAN, CAN

By Glenn Logan

I see by the papers that the state Pollution Control Board, hereinafter referred to as PCB, has decided it has no jurisdiction over noisy toys, so dear to the heart of childhood.

An organization known as Citizens Against Noise, which enables it to function under the initials, CAN, wanted PCB to make a regulation limiting the amount of noise that can be produced by toys sold in Illinois.

CAN wants to see continuous noise levels held to 85 decibels, and those of an explosive type limited to 100 decibels. As if you didn't know, a decibel is defined as "a unit for measuring the volume of a sound equal to the logarithm of the ration of the intensity of the sound to the intensity of an arbitrarily chosen standard sound."

I remember when talk of the third international airport was running hot of writing several pieces in which decibels played a prominent part, and as I recall it 85 was bearable.

I suppose to be consistant we should

A member of our church gave me an article from one of the area newspapers, regarding the eighth grade trip of School District 140. It is hard to believe that a trip to a Milwaukee brewery or to the Playboy Club in Lake Geneva, Wisc. would even be given consideration by intelligent educators and adults.

The school board's recording secretary says that the trip would be very educational and that it would be a part of "career education", according to the article. When alcoholism is on the increase and when homes are breaking up in divorce because of alcoholism, why do young people need such an educational trip? Must they learn how to be drunkards, sex maniacs and prostitutes? Since they seem bent on taking the brewery tour, I would hope they would include Madison Street in Chicago to see the blessings of the brewery.

I write in behalf of young people who, according to the board president, must sit in the bus if their parents will not allow them to tour the brewery. Why must the school officials discriminate against these students? I am sure that the officials can use their educated, intelligent minds to come up with a use the abbreviation for decibel to go with PCB and CAN. The short term for decibel differs from most of the alphabetical crowd. When reduced decibel becomes a simply db, no caps, no periods. If it looks like it belongs in an exercise in algebra, maybe you are right. According to members of CAN they are not unreasonable in their demands. They ask that the continuous noise level be held to 85 db, and explosive noises held to 100 db, as measured one foot from the source of the noise.

PCB explained it is not interested in small calibre noises. If PCB is to have any jurisdiction the noise must go beyond the property where it originates.

That gives noise makers a pretty wide latitude. Now if you go into a boiler works when it is going full blast one will find it a bit noisy, unless he is stone deaf. But if the plant is located on an acre lot and has the windows and doors closed the sound doesn't travel too far.

Give a youngster a drum, a pair of better trip for eighth graders.

I have worked as a Youth Pastor at Calvary Baptist Church in Oak Forest for eight years and have had sufficient time to plan better things for young people. If you need help, School District 140, I will be glad to suggest good, clean, wholesome activities.

cymbals, or lessons on the cornet or the slide trombone and it is pretty tough on the family and chance visitors but doesn't bother the neighbors much unless it is summer and everyone has his windows open. Whether PCB is willing to get mixed up in such a situation, I don't know. I remember one time when living in an apartment that a chap in the house next was forever messing with auto engines that were out of sorts. People used to bring him their problems and he seemed to prefer to work on them at night, beginning about 11 p.m. and working until 3 or 4 in the morning.

He received complaints from all around the neighborhood but paid no attention until one night or early morning an Irishman that lived above me called out of his window to stop the noise.

"How would you like to try and make me?" the noisemaker asked.

I am sorry to say that he just made the house in time to slam the door in the Irishman's face. But we had no more noise at night because Mac told the lad there would be no further warning, that the next time he worked on cars and tuned engines at night he would get the beating of his life and any life remaining would be kept miserable by a string of beatings.

This is better than PCB could have or would have done. It seems that PCB is not only shying away from local noises but is having quite a time in coming to conclusions about what is called, stationary sources of noise — such as industry and the like. The PCB is supposed to have a report coming up on this phase of noisyness in a few months.

PCB has still to have other hearings, in low dbs we hope, on noise pollution from ground transportations, railroads, trucks, snowmobiles, lawnmowers and such.

After wrestling these noises to at least a draw the PCB will take up the sounds of jets and other aircraft taking off that drives people up the wall if they reside near a busy airport.

You can see by this that PCB has no time for the squeaks, whistles, clanging, buzzings, bangs, and other sounds that may emanate from toys so you can let yourself go in your Christmas shopping. If you are smart, though, you will buy the noise makers for kids who live some distance from your own place of residence — say 500 or a thousand miles.

Election still warm

They want voters' 'blood'

Once more, the Illinois General Assembly, thanks mostly to its intensely partisan leadership, has brushed aside the concerns of the public to devote its attention to the topic nearest its heart; more money.

In as shoddy a session as it has concocted in its life-span of nearly two years, the 77th version of the legislature paid only lip service to the purpose for which it was convened in special session last week, namely, tax relief. Instead, it spent three days wrangling over ways and means to fatten the public hog in preparation for another feast.

The theme of practically every candidate in every election in the recent campaign was "the overburdened taxpayer" and the vital necessity of finding ways to unburden him.

When the legislature heard Gov. Ogilvie's plea for an immediate freeze on property taxes as a means of achieving that goal, it furrowed its collective brow, muttered something about "a complex problem requiring further study," and promptly began studying the question of pay raises.

Demonstrating that they are not concerned only with themselves, the legislature also turned its attention toward other state residents: judges, county officials and other "public servants."

While appointed state employees and mere members of the public work under the controls of the wage-price freeze, legislators magnanimously debate whether Supreme Court justices should receive $5,000 or $10,000 hikes from their present $40,000 levels, and similar raises for other judges.

They quickly agreed upon and passed hikes for county officials ranging from $4,000 to $6,000, representing increases of from 30 to 40 percent (though this legislation may fail to stand because of a technical error).

Though there is widespread opposition to the practice of raising their own salaries immediately after an election — having avoided the embarrassment beforehand — the pay-raise remains very much alive. There are indications that if any passes, it would not be more than $2,000, which the legislators say would be within federal guidelines.

However, they have already agreed upon creation of a generous $32 per-day expense allowance, plus a boost in office expense allowances from $4,000 to $10,000 per year.

We believe a pay raise to be unjustified at this time, and we would also urge tight restraint on any increases approved for judges and state officers.

If the legislators will listen, they may hear beneath the din of local public officials screaming for more money a small, thin voice pleading, "Help!" That is the taxpayer.

'Tis the season . . .

Tinley Park Jaycees last weekend felled the tree that is to become the village's 1972 Christmas tree. The search for a suitable tree is made every year by the Jaycees. This year they were offered a tree belonging to Nancy and Keith Hultsch, of 6601 Hubbard Lane. Mrs. Hultsch and her children watched as the Jaycees guided the tree down.

Five able-bodied Jaycees — Jim Lockwood, Mike Cutrano, Ed Siemsen, Bob Marwell and "Ziggy" Staszak — lend a supporting hand to lift the tree into place in front of Sender Realty, on 16555 Oak Park Ave. They were assisted by Randy Dolen, who saw the men working from his car, and decided to help.

Later, Girl Scouts from troop 315 began decorating the 20-foot high tree with their homemade decorations. Scout Melissa Mason, of Tinley Park, puts on the tree's first decoration. Lights on the tree will be turned on Dec. 16.

working together but, in fact, each hinders the other.

Richards was the captain of the three security shifts at the hospital until Nov. 27, 1972, when he received a notice from Charles Williams stating, "In an effort to resolve the continuing problems which have plagued the security department, Mr. Piepenbrink has made arrangements for a study and evaluation of the department to be performed by amanagement specialist from outside the Department of Mental Health."

"Pending the results of this evaluation, I am assuming the on-going supervision of the security department, with the responsibility for shift supervision only as follows..."

This notice was posted three days before this reporter interviewed Piepenbrink. During that interview, Piepenbrink stated that no further action or changes in the security department would be made until the survey was completed.

Piepenbrink said the survey would take a couple of weeks.

On Monday, Dec. 4, 1972, an order from from Piepenbrink's office removed all rank in the security department.

Richards said he felt that Piepenbrink went back on his word. But, according to some of the hospital employees contacted, this was not surprising.

Center misuses restraint orders

By BRUCE SRACHTA

TINLEY PARK — Recently the HERALD obtained information that blank restraining orders were being signed by a licensed physician at the Tinley Park Mental Health Center.

Further investigation by the HERALD uncovered the rules outlining when restraints may be used (Rule 12.02 - Restraint) and a blank restraint order signed by a physician or a person claiming to be a physician.

The information was obtained from the Tinley Park Mental Health Center.

A restraint, as defined by the rules of the Department of Mental Health, is the partial or total immobilization of all four extremities by physical means for the purpose of preventing assault or imminent suicidal behavior.

According to rule 12.02, section two, "Restraints shall be administered only on a prior written prescription of a physician on form DMH-123, Restraint Record. In an emergency and when a physician is not immediately available, restraints may be administered. In this event, a physician's prescription on Form DMH-123 shall be obtained as quickly as possible and, in any event, shall be obtained no later than eight hours after the initial application of such emergency restraints."

Section four of Rule 12.02 states, "No order for restraint shall be valid for more than eight hours. If further restraint is required, a new prescription must be issued on Form DMH-123."

And finally the last section of Rule 12.02, section eight, states, "Any employee or representative of any facility who violates the foregoing provisions shall be subject to immediate and severe disciplinary action. The department will not tolerate any use of restraints in an abusive manner. It is the responsibility of the facility superintendent to insure that this rule is complied with."

Speaking on restraining orders, Hospital Administrator Harold C. Piepenbrink said, "That should be a last resort; when the person is acting out to the point that he is either injuring himself or could injure others including other patients or staff."

The restraining order, "Is a type of prescription that a physician signs. Like you would prescribe drugs, it's not on the same form but it's a similar type form," Piepenbrink said.

When asked if the restraint had the same legal implication as a prescription for drugs Piepenbrink said, "Right, a physician signs a prescription."

When asked if there was a law against signing blank prescriptions Piepenbrink said, "There are some issues relating to the Illinois Medical Practice Act that a physician would have problems with that himself as an individual in signing these blank prescriptions."

When confronted with the accusation that physicians were signing blank prescriptions Piepenbrink said, "By the physicians? Isolated a, one physician of a whole group?"

When told the HERALD possessed copies of signed restraining orders and asked if this was common practice Piepenbrink said, "If it is it's certainly not the policy of the hospital. It would be like signing blank drug prescriptions which obviously would be opposed to the policies of this facility."

He also said, "I'm not aware that there are blank prescriptions signed for either drugs or restraining orders. I wouldn't consider one any worse than the other actually. If I were told about these I would certainly take some action to prevent that from happening."

This interview took place on Thursday, Nov. 30, 1972 early in the afternoon. On the evening of Dec. 11, 1972 a Tinley Park Mental Health Security Officer presented this reporter with more signed blank restriction orders which he said he picked up that same day.

Prostitution or statutory rape; center will not press charges

(Editors note: To protect the reputation of individuals the names of patients have been omitted in the following text of the official report obtained from the Tinley Park Mental Health Center.)

TINLEY PARK — In mid-November The HERALD received a complaint and information from individuals working in the Tinley Park Mental Health Center to the effect that female patients were being used for purposes of prostitution.

Upon further investigation a message to Pat Filter, legal office, from Crossroads Director, Robert Buonaure, was obtained. Crossroads is part of the drug abuse program operated by the state in the Tinley Park Mental Health Center complex.

The text of the message said, "On Thursday, Oct. 26, 1972, (name omitted) and (name omitted) left the House unknowingly as splitees at approximately 7 a.m."

"They were then picked up on 183rd and Harlem Avenue (off grounds) by (name omitted) who is presently working (at time of report) at the J.C.P. Program and was once a resident of Tinley Park."

"He drove the girls to a motel on the north side of Chicago and got them a room provided that (name omitted) have sexual intercourse with a friend of his who had supplied the money for the room.

(Employee) also had sexual intercourse with (name omitted) during the night. (Employee) set up another situation in which (name omitted) was to have sex with a man for profit, but the other man did not show up.

(Name omitted) is 14 years old and (name omitted) 15. Mr. (name omitted), father, wants to take court action against the men involved and wishes Crossroads to cooperate.

"The two girls returned to Crossroads on Friday, Oct. 27, 1972."

The message is signed by Robert Buonaure.

Buonaure was unavailable for comment; however, Miss Judy Holts, staff member at Crossroads, stated that (employee) was employed by the Joint Childrens Program.

When asked if any further action was being taken, Miss Holts said, "Not to our knowledge."

The Joint Childrens Program is part of the Tinley Park Mental Health Center under the administration of Harold C. Piepenbrink.

In an interview Piepenbrink said, "As I saw that case, I took the administrative action open to me. That was to remove that employee from being an employee here."

Security Officer Charlie Wilson maintains that the employee was not discharged, but, when confronted with the accusation, was allowed to resign. If allowed to resign the employee's permanent record would state simply "resigned" and the individual could seek employment with another state hospital.

"The girls were not removed from the grounds. As I understand the story the employee did not know the girls before. He could have picked up anybody on Interstate 80 as far as that goes," Piepenbrink told The HERALD.

"To some degree we might have been on shaky grounds, civil service wise, in what he (employee) was doing on his own time. Theoretically that's a possibility."

"The patients mentioned were not ours. (Employee) worked for us and was discharged. When drug abuse contacted us and said one of our people was involved we discharged the employee. He was not going to be an employee of ours if, in fact, he was involved in that situation," Piepenbrink said.

Two restraint records, DMH - 123, both blank with different signatures were obtained by the HERALD. The signatures on the orders read F. Z. Marbella and A. T. Waskawicz. According to Hospital Administrator Harold C. Piepenbrink these orders are the same as signed blank prescriptions. Doctors Fidencio Marbella and A. T. Waskawicz are currently employed at the hospital.

Must have approval

OAK FOREST — Plan Commission agreed to recommend to the Village Board the naming of a planning consultant firm to aid the Plan Commission and the trustees in making decisions affecting the village's future.

The firm of William S. Lawrence and Associates will be placed before the trustees for their approval.

The Plan Commission's recommendation came at last Thursday's meeting after hearing sample presentations from six consulting firms during the last several meetings.

In other business, the Commission also recommended for trustee approval the enlargement of Gas City service station, located at the corner of Cicero Avenue and Waverly Avenue.

Harry Tallon, vice-president of marketing for Gas City, asked the Commission for conditional permitted use of property just north of where the current station is presently located. Gas City has the option to buy that parcel of property.

Though the land is already zoned commercial, businesses such as gas stations are required by city ordinance to apply for "a conditional permitted use" whenever they plan to change their facilities.

The changes Tallon asked for included permission to raze the present Gas City building, to raze the building north of the station to enlarge driveways onto Cicero Avenue to 32 feet wide each and to place four 24 x four foot advertising billboards.

The commission agreed to the proposed razings of both buildings, however, Commission Chairman Michael Passantino informed Tallon that 25-foot wide driveways are the maximum allowed by city ordinance.

City Engineer Michael Cozzo told the commission said that other businesses along Cicero have driveways of wider width, and that the ordinance is not enforced. Tallon protested the 25-foot requirement, believing it to be too small to allow easy access for cars travelling at higher rates of speed along Cicero Avenue.

The commission compromised on 30-foot wide driveways along Cicero Avenue. They also changed the number of billboards requested from four down to two, and that both the corner of Waverly Avenue and Cicero Avenue and the northeast corner be landscaped. Tallon agreed to the provisions. Tallon said work on the project would probably not commence until May, 1973.

The commission denied another request made by Martin Oil Company for a new gas station 159th Street between Latrobe Avenue and Laramie Avenue. Commissioners said they felt another type of business other than a gas station would be more appropriate for the location. Passantino said that there are presently six other gas stations near the vicinity.

The commission tabled review of a preliminary plat of property to be developed at 155th Avenue and Lockwood Avenue. The 2.8 acres, formerly called the Simon Subdivision, is now under new ownership, and has many "unanswered questions", according to Passantino.

The property, now in the possession of Leonard Winnick, is currently zoned "R1" which means each lot has a frontage of 60 feet. Winnick would like to keep a variance on the zoning that was granted to the Simon Subdivision in 1969. The variance called for 80-foot frontages. Passantino pointed out that variances granted on previous zoning may not be passed on from one owner to the next. In order to keep the variance, he said, Winnick would need to receive the approval of the Zoning Board.

Also, Passantino said he would like to see an updated engineering report on the property from Engineer Cozzo. Passantino said lots on the property would have to hook on to a water main built by St. Damien's Church. The church requires that property owners hooking on to the main reimburse the church at the rate of $198 per acre — a requirement Winnick said he was unaware of.

Around Town

SOUTHWEST — Students at the Prevocational Training Center, 184th and Central Avenue, Tinley Park will join Ben Braun, director of Southwest Cook County Cooperative for Special Education, and staff at the center is hosting an open house on Wednesday evening Dec. 20th, from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

Parents and friends will have an opportunity to see the many projects initiated this year and to visit with teachers and staff. A Christmas sale of candles and craft items will be another feature of the open house.

Refreshments will be prepared and served by the students. Marty Fox, program coordinator for PVTC invites the community to visit the Center on this evening.

NEW LENOX — The Lincoln-Way Area Recycling Co-op continues its ecology-related activities, specifically its recycling program, Saturday, Dec. 16, from 9 a.m. to noon, at the five recycling centers.

Collection centers are at the Lincoln-Way High School; Oakview Junior High at New Lenox; Willowcrest Junior High at Mokena; Frankfort Grade School and Arbary Hills School. Centers are open the third Saturday of each month.

Materials that can be recycled include newspapers and comic books, tied or sacked; bottles, in boxes or sacks, rinsed out and sorted by color, with all metals removed; aluminum pans, foils or seamless cans and tin, steel and bimetal cans. (These have a side seam; paper labels must be removed and cans flattened.)

WESTHAVEN — It's Christmas time in Westhaven again. And to celebrate this festive holiday season, the Jaycee's of Westhaven are sponsoring a Christmas lighting and home decorating contest, for the residents of Westhaven only.

To enter this contest please call one of the following phone numbers. Lorin Schab, 349-9563, John Shimkus 349-7597, Ray Soto 349-8824.

Judging for this contest will be held on Dec. 17, 1972. Be it known that all Jaycee's members are disqualified from this contest.

Jaycees slate Operation Red Ball program

ORLAND PARK — "Operation Red Ball" will be introduced in the village by the Jaycee Chapter, it was announced this week by President Paul Silvae.

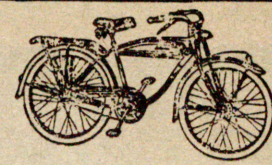

The program, which identifies homes in which children and invalids are living, will be conducted by the Jaycees in cooperation with the Orland Park Fire Protection District and the village government. Richard Juern is chairman of the project for the Jaycees.

Red ball stickers will be provided by the Jaycees. A sticker is placed in the bedroom window of the child or invalid in order that rescue can be effected more rapidly in case of an emergency.

Silvae says the stickers have been ordered and will be available sometime during December. Plans for distribution of the stickers have not been completed but will be provided free of charge to residents.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER
BY BOB HIRSCH

Got all your Christmas shopping done? Still undecided about a shirt, robe, slip, toaster, tie or toys? Are you sure you didn't overlook some one? Got your decorations in order? Your tree, bells, tinsel, candles, holly? Are all your cards addressed or in the mail? Any last minute additions needed? What about your Christmas dinner? All set? Know where you will be — and with whom?

These and similar questions are being asked nearly everywhere. You have heard them before. You will hear them again. And again. In all this joyful festival preparation — and hideous confusion at times — you rarely hear a certain question. It may be old fashioned to ask it, but here it is: Why is mankind apparently more concerned with symbols, pageantry and personal sentiment — instead of the spiritual reality of Christmas?

We will have an interesting thought on the spiritual reality of Christmas here next week. . . . watch for it. . . .

SAGITTASAYS if you are presently engaged to be married, this period of Sagittarius — Nov. 23 to Dec. 22 — may be mentally expansive. Jupiter, the ruling planet of Sagittarius governs what we call Luck, and the jovial good-times associated with Jupiterian things lends festivity to your plans. The same planet is related to church matters, so you might now be reserving your wedding date.

The same influence could contribute to your honeymoon plans to travel and be outdoors in spite of our winter setting. You, as a couple may find yourselves trying to outdo one another's generosity at this time, certainly a fine way to begin any enduring relationship.

MARY LOUISE BREITBARTH

TINLEY PARK — Mr. and Mrs. Richard Benz, 6500 W. 171st St., announced the engagement of their daughter, Susan Carol, to Alan Lee Wischnowski. Alan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wischnowski, 6649 Pine Point Drive, Tinley Park.

Susan, a 1969 graduate of Tinley Park High School, is in her senior year at Illinois State University. She is majoring in Elementary Education.

Alan, also a 1969 graduate of Tinley High, is presently employed in a mechanical maintenance position for Commonwealth Edison, Joliet.

The wedding is being planned for August, 1973.

TINLEY PARK — Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Breitbarth, 17063 Elm Lane, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Louise, to Kenneth Jay Campbell. Kenneth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Campbell, 6606 Parkside Drive.

Mary Louise is a 1971 graduate of Tinley Park High School and is presently employed at Travelers Insurance Co., Chicago.

Kenneth is a 1970 graduate of Tinley High and is presently employed with the Public Works Department of Tinley Park.

Dec. 1, 1973, has been selected as the wedding day.

SUSAN CAROL BENZ

BELLWOOD — Mr. and Mrs. John J. Taylor, formerly of Orland Park, announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen H., to Walter D. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Jones, Palos Park.

Karen is a 1970 graduate of Carl Sandburg High School and is presently employed by Profile Personnel, Chicago.

Walter is a 1969 graduate of Carl Sandburg High School and will complete his Bachelors in Speech at Northwestern University in 1973. He is presently employed part time at WXFM Chicago and plans to pursue a radio and television career.

The couple will be married June 30, 1973, at the Orland Park United Methodist Church.

Look Younger Day After Day After Day

Suddenly one morning you look in the mirror and face the truth. You don't look as young as you used to.

Women in many parts of the world have, like you, been distressed by the skin dryness that accents the wrinkles and lines that make a woman look older than need be. Then they discovered a world-renowned beauty secret. These women could tell you the benefits of their secret, Oil of Olay moisturizing lotion. But why not experience the beautiful results yourself?

Quick-penetrating Oil of Olay was created by beauty researchers to ease away dryness. Watch as your skin all but drinks in the unique blend, with its tropical moisturizing oils, abundant natural moisture, and other emollients. The precious fluid helps maintain the oil-moisture balance needed for younger-looking skin. Its natural ingredients help retain your skin's own moisture to keep you younger-looking still.

Oil of Olay® is as near as your drugstore. Apply lavishly morning and night. Look younger day after day after day.

The season for creativity

By JEAN WILLE

If anyone has been gifted with artistic talents, it is usually evident at Christmas Time. No other time of the year is quite so festive or offers more innovation on the theme of beauty.

For centuries children and adults have been marveling at the sparkling majesty of evergreen trees strung with bright lights and further decorated with ornaments and tinsel. Some tree garnishments are actually family heirlooms that have gathered value simply from time and memories. Others are just beginning to collect sentimental meanings of their own.

Children often have their favorite little trinket to hang on the family Christmas tree. It may be a symbol of the joy of Christ's birth, a paper ornament belonging to a favorite relative, or, one they have made themselves. It could also be a new ornament covered with "real diamonds" that reflect the glimmering lights.

Many people are still carrying on the tradition of making their own ornaments. Christmas tree ornament kits can be purchased, however, if the added sparkle happens to be a stone from grandma's necklace or a shiny bit of one of dad's cufflinks, its value is untold.

Mrs. William Taylor, 7801 Silver Court, Orland Park, began making ornaments two years ago. She begins with the shimmering "red apples" that can be purchased at almost any Christmas display.

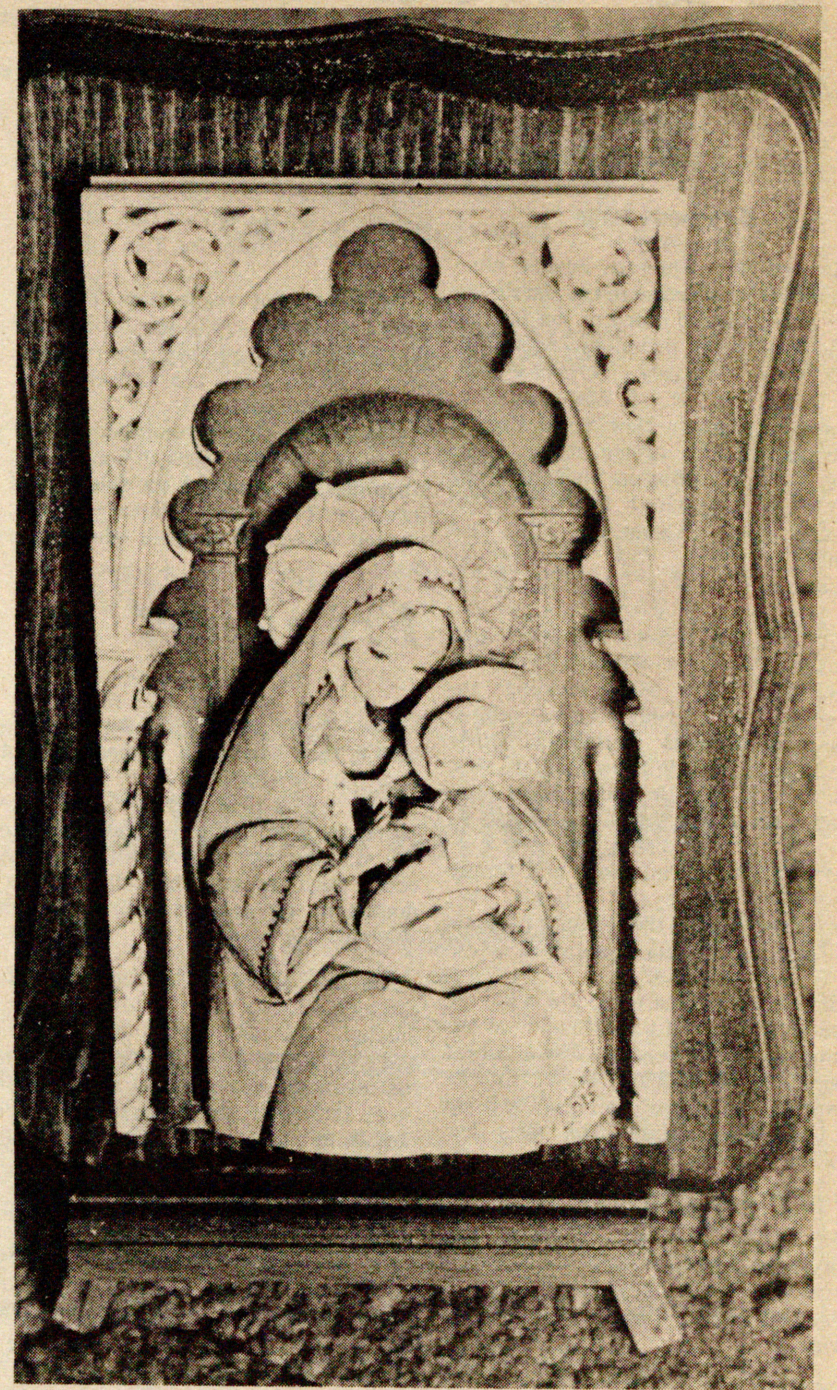

Lois confided that "I raid jewelry boxes whenever I can."

She uses pieces of lace edging, gold and silver braid and "anything that glitters" to add to the dazzlement of the ornaments. Earrings, fancy dress pins, buttons with rhinestones and small pearls add even more sparkle to each glowing red sphere.

The Taylor family presently has about two dozen "originals" to hang from green branches and collect memories.

Lois also took lessons at the Indian Oaks Craft Center, 14621 S. LaGrange Road, Orland Park, for ideas on papier tole.

Papier tole is an old French form of adding dimension to pictures. Three to five identical prints from greeting cards or wrapping paper are used for one finished picture. The background is formed by one complete print. Main subjects from the background are added, layer by layer, until the final dimensions are reached.

A pastel, papier tole, Madonna and Child, by Lois Taylor.

Height between the layers of prints is made with dabs of silicone seal and the final print is slightly inverted to add more reality. The finished picture is then sprayed with a sealing coat of varnish, framed, and sometimes encased in glass.

Papier tole is not a seasonal type of art, however, some of the loveliest are Christmas orientated.

Lois recently finished a papier tole nativity scene. She added a bit of straw to the scene—one of those little extras that could subtract rather than add to the scene if improperly placed.

She also completed a papier tole Madonna and Child, 4 x 6 inches, which is from pastel prints and is backed by a curvilinear stained plaque. Lois has placed some of her papier tole pictures on small easels throughout the Taylor home, but, the delicate art pieces are equally captivating when adorning a wall.

Farm leader to pace Heart Fund drive

WILL COUNTY — Eugene M. Malone, executive secretary of the Will County Farm Bureau, will head the 1973 Heart Fund Campaign in Will County, it was announced by Maynard Boudreau, president of the Will County Heart Association. The campaign will be conducted here and throughout the nation during February, declared American Heart Month by an Act of Congress.

A native of Ford County where he grew up on a farm near Kempton, Malone is a graduate of University of Illinois. After two years active duty as an army artillery officer, Malone began his career in farm organization work with Illinois Farm Bureau in McDonough County, Macomb, in 1955.

Upon moving to Will County he has become active in many civic and business activities. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Joliet Region Chamber of Commerce, the Joliet Lions Club and now serves as president of the Parents Club of St. Jude Church, New Lenox.

He is the author of a Weekly Column "Shop Talk" in the Farmers Weekly Review and is a member of the American Agricultural Economics Association. Malone resides in New Lenox with his wife, Nancy, and five children.

The Heart Fund chairman cited the urgent need in the forthcoming campaign. "More than 675,000 Americans will die this year of heart attack, the number one killer in the nation, he said. The drive will seek to raise funds to reduce death and disability from heart attack and other heart and blood vessel diseases. Give generously to support Heart programs when your Heart Fund volunteer calls."

According to Malone, Heart Fund volunteers will visit all residential areas during February to distribute heart-saving information and collect funds to support research, educational and community service programs of the Illinois Heart Association.

Moriarty to leave Marathon veep post

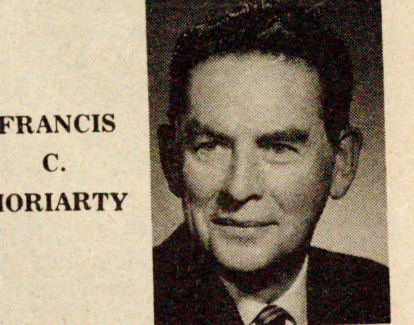

FINDLAY, O. — Francis C. Moriarty, a native of Mokena, director and senior vice president of refining and marketing, Marathon Oil Co., has elected to take early retirement to fulfill a lifelong desire to enjoy his ranch at Findley Point, near Flathead Lake, in Montana.

He is the son of Mrs. Ernest McMahon. Attended grade school in Mokena and high school at Joliet. He is a graduate of Purdue University and Harvard's advanced management program. Moriarty began his career in petroleum refining with Universal Oil Products Co., Des Plaines, Ill., serving there for 16 years. He joined Aurora Gasoline Co., Detroit, as assistant vice president of manufacturing in 1950 and advanced two years later to vice president, the position he occupied when Aurora was acquired by Marathon in 1959.

In 1961 Moriarty moved to Findlay, where Marathon's general office is located, to become manager of domestic refining.

He was elected a vice president in 1963, and continued to direct the company's domestic refining operations until 1966 when he became vice president of marketing in the United States. He was elected to the board of directors in 1969 and named senior vice president in charge of worldwide refining and marketing operations.

He is a past president and former director of the National Petroleum Refiners Association. Moriarty also has been active in the American Petroleum Institute's division of marketing as a member of the general, budget and planning, jobber advisory and products committees. He also was a director of the Asphalt Institute. He is the only person who has received certificates of appreciation from both the division of marketing and the division of refining of the American Petroleum Institute. He is an honorary member for life on the general committee for marketing.

In community life he is a past president of the United Community Fund of Hancock County, and has served on the Board of Trustees and Executive Committee. He also was active in the Boy Scouts, serving on the executive board of the Ohio Council and as a National Council representative.

Music groups

FRANKFORT — Frankfort School, District 157 C, has extended an open invitation to the public to attend its Holiday Music Program Dec. 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium, 157 Oregon Street.

Concluding the program will be a song-fest of familiar Christmas carols, with audience participation. Admission is free.

Lincoln-Way coeds study woodworking

NEW LENOX — Being capable of decorating your own apartment or home, is of interest to the students enrolled in home furnishings, equipment, and services; a course offered in home economics at Lincoln-Way High School. The purpose of the course is twofold; one to allow the students to gain knowledge in the principles and elements of interior design, and second, to teach entry level job skills that the students could utilize in obtaining a job.

This course is divided into two semesters; one being spent in the industrial education's woodshop, and the other semester being spent in the home economics department. Event the semester in the woodshop is taught by home economics personnel under the guidance of the woodshop's instructor. Of great interest to the girls is the unit on furniture renovation and refinishing.

Pieces of furniture are brought into the classroom and the girls divided up into teams with each team refinishing a piece of the furniture. They also learn about, and experiment with, other types of finishes for wood. One of the popular ways of finishing that the girls like, is the antique finish process in which a color undercoat is applied to the surface and then a glaze is rubbed over the color.

Another project undertaken while in the woodshop is the construction of a lamp from basswood and walnut. The girls learn the safety and operation of the power equipment through constructing the lamp. They do all the electrical wiring of the lamp, and the concepts learned can become a carry-over for later use when they may have to rewire a plug on a small household appliance.

The largest project undertaken in the responsibility of decorating the interior of the building trades' house which is part of the interdepartmental occupational training program of the vocational departments of the school.

The homefurnishings class selects the color scheme for the interior of the house, stains and varnishes the woodwork, and paints the interior walls. This experience is a practical one, but there is much gained from it. Many of the girls are more realistic about frequency of changes in color schemes after they have had to roll on two coats of paint and varnish the woodwork without touching the paint. The building trades' house is being constructed in the Windermere subdivision of New Lenox.

Christ Granzek says, "It's fun to be able to build something from nothing, even if it doesn't turn out perfect." Others in the class comment on the fact that the hours fly by because they are so active in working on their projects. The girls also have created toys out of scrap wood which have been useful in the child care and guidance class which is another part of the home economics program. There is a consensus of opinion that this course is informative, useful for the near future for the girls, and is fun.

Not all class time is spent in active work but there is considerable researching and studying of principle and elements of interior design. This takes place mainly in the home economics department.

In this section the students study the various components that are part of a room; floor coverings and window treatments, furniture and accessories. They learn how to be a wise consumer of home furnishings and how to coordinate and arrange them successfully in the home. They summarize this study by decorating a miniature room which they design and construct to scale in a cardboard box. Guest speakers are invited by the class to discuss their special areas in the decorating of a home. On occasions the class goes to the place of business to gain first-hand knowledge.

Creative and inexpensive room accessories is a favorite area that many of the girls enjoy. They work on such projects as mod-podge, which is a kind of decoupage, creative stitchery wall hangings, or braided twine door pieces that may be changed in decorations with the change of the seasons. At present they are interested in creating interesting Christmas decorations. Learning, seeing and doing are all a part of the home furnishings, equipment and services course at Lincoln-Way High School.

An editorial

No tea party in Will County

Curiouser and curiouser.

At first glance, there would seem to be little resemblance between Will County and Alice's Wonderland.

Yet recent statements would seem to come from the Mad Hatter's tea party, rather than a meeting of elected county officials.

Will County is hiring a new county planning department director. The county board's executive planning committee originally asked for $18,000 with which to hire an experienced, competent planner. $18,000 would not be an unreasonable sum for a good countrywide planner. For example, the village of Bolingbrook recently hired an experienced planner for $16,000 a year.

The county board trimmed the committee's request to $12,000 the previous planner's salary, plus a 5.5 per cent increase. This "guideline" increase brought the salary up to $12,600. Increases of 5.5 per cent had been granted to county union employees, but setting guidelines for "professional" duties is something new. Keeping the planner within the 5.5 per cent guideline could set a precedent for all the county's professional employees.

Which brings us to the tea party.

"$12,600 sounds like a good sum to me," said Le Roy Van Duyne, planning committee member at last Thursday's meeting of the group.

"That's a pretty good wage for a farm boy," said Van Duyne.

Really now, Mr. Van Duyne. Can you seriously compare the wages of a county wide planner with those of a farm boy? Will County is no longer just a farm area. Bolingbrook, Frankfort, Park Forest South and other communities are booming. They need all the planning help they can get. It's no longer a valid argument to equate the problems of Will County with the problems of farms.

As to the need for an experienced and degreed planner, Van Duyne said the county should be looking for someone with some "practical experience, rather than that little piece of paper". He added, "I'm looking for someone with the technical knowledge, with some technical nuts and bolts experience in planning.

"A knowledge of the county and a practical knowledge of the field is needed more than what is learned in college. I would like to hire someone from here," said Van Duyne.

County Board Chairman Roy Hassert said he agreed with Van Duyne. When the topic Thursday shifted to the importance of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC), Hassert said, "NIPC has never done anything for Will County. It is just a professional hustler for Cook County."

Really now, Chairman Hassert. NIPC does planning for five counties other than Cook. If you'll look at your own DuPage Township, NIPC has been working with Bolingbrook in trying to secure open space lands. If you'll look elsewhere on this page, you'll see a report concerning flood plains that comes from NIPC.

But through their statements, Van Duyne and Chairman Hassert have probably given an indication of Things To Come. They have cast themselves in the role of small town boys trying to save their flawless rural area from those big city slickers Upstream and (even worse) college intellectuals.

By keeping the planner's salary so low, the county board has ruled out the possibility of luring an experienced, professional person into the county. The planner will remain ineffective in dealing with the problems of builders coming into Will County, especially into the unincorporated areas.

But at $12,600, the planner's job will be a nice patronage plum. After the county finds it can't get any trained planner, the board will have to look back in its own back yard. The political cronies of those in power will probably be first in line.

When that time comes, Messrs. Van Duyne and Hassert, whom will be your choice?

And did anybody see that white rabbit?

Homeowners to taks gripes to Stevenson

ARBURY HILLS — Homeowners in this Will County community will take their housing problems to Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson's Chicago office Monday morning in hopes of obtaining federal help against the contractor.

A spokesman from Stevenson's Washington office said the meeting has been set for 11 a.m. Monday at Stevenson's Chicago office in the Dirksen Federal Building.

Homeowners from the Rainbow Valley section of Arbury Hills will voice their complaints to the senator. Kaufman and Broad Builders have come under attack for home construction in the subdivision north of Frankfort on LaGrange Road.

Investigators from the FBI have been working in the area for several months to collect information about the K & B firm. The FBI agents have been working in conjunction with architects and auditors to gather evidence.

Village anxious for Kunes project

ORLAND PARK — "We've been working on that piece of property for sometime for somebody to develop, and now we have somebody," said Village President Melvin Doogan about the 42 acres proposed for development by auto dealer Terry Kunes at 143rd Street between La Grange Road and 94th Avenue on the southeast corner.

Doogan's remark followed a verbal report from Zoning Board of Appeals Chairman Merrill Cooper of the results of an open hearing on the proposal Dec. 11. Cooper described Kunes' plan as, "A very outstanding development," and said the zoning board approved it, and referred it to the village board.

Cooper said Kunes wished to start building a larger Lincoln-Mercury agency on the site soon, but other commercial development will be sometime in the future. He added the entire development will tie in with the regional shopping center.

The board authorized the attorney to draw up the necessary ordinances amending the Village Zoning Ordinance.

In another matter the board received a reply to its registered letter sent to Hillcrest Builders requesting its attention to correcting infiltration and sewer infractions in Cameno Units one, two and three. The builder said 97 per cent of the work was done in Unit three, and he would make diligent efforts to make corrections in all units.

Village Attorney Raymond Pieper said he had no formal contact with Hillcrest, but had in conversation mentioned to its vice-president Michael Howard that all details in the three units should be cleared up as soon as possible. He also said he talked of a release of a 200 by 300-foot piece of land as well as the infiltration problem.

Three copies of letters from Village Engineer George Chastain were read to the board. Chastain found a 42-inch round storm sewer acceptable in Maycliff Unit seven and the matter was referred to engineer advisor Harrison Smith; reaffirmed laying a first course of paving on 88th Avenue in Fairway subdivision with later work to come in better weather; and requested a copy of rainfall records from the Metropolitan Sanitary District to complete required periodic sewer flow charts for MSD.

A minor discussion broke out when Art Novak of Martin Implement Company requested permission to erect a six-foot fence topped with three strands of barbed wire around that portion of his five acres enclosing vehicles. His request was prompted by the theft of $10,000 truck last week. Although the fence would be set back 65 feet from La Grange Road Trustee Robert Bibeau felt barbed wire was a detraction to the appearance of LaGrange Road.

It was brought out that Andrew Corporation is placing barbed wire around its property except on the side abutting the homes in Oak Meadows. Several Board members pointed out the board did not give Andrew permission for barbed wire. "How'd they go about doing that?" inquired Trustee Harley Uthe. Novak was to meet with the board committee Tuesday, Dec. 12.

Associate Village Attorney Thomas Kerr reported Eugene Novak of 143rd

Street near 89th Avenue was fined $300 for violation of County zoning restrictions. The sentence could be up for reconsideration Jan. 31 if Novak should annex to the village.

Several park site tax bills have been misdirected and the matter of their being tax exempt was up for question. The Board authorized the Village Attorney to determine the status of the 1971 tax bill on park land, particularly in the Administration Building area, and to pay the bills if necessary.

In other matters the board:

- authorized the village engineer to prepare the annual zoning map.
- adopted the calendar for board meetings during the coming year for the second and fourth Monday of the month with one meeting in May and December.
- adopted the ordinance forbidding parking on the east side of Highland Avenue north from 151st to 146th, and on the south side of 146th Street, east to West Avenue.
- requested final inspection of MSD for Silver Lake Gardens Unit No. three.
- placed an application for a business license for a paint and wall-paper store at 9965 W. 143rd Street into committee.
- announced receipt of a check for the first six months under the Revenue Sharing Plan of $14,098.

Two youths beaten

ORLAND PARK — Sandburg High School parking lot was the scene of two separate acts of violence after a basketball game Saturday night, Dec. 9.

A 16-year-old boy and girl were assaulted and beaten by six youths believed to be students from another high school as they walked in the lot. No reason could be given for the attack.

The girl was struck in the face when she attempted to assist her friend on the ground, and an attempt was made to molest her by the gang. The beaten boy was taken to Palos Community Hospital with a bleeding mouth, swollen arm and apparent loss of memory. The girl's face was swollen and her eye blackened. Both victims were in a degree of shock.

Earlier in the evening as four youths from Oak Lawn high school sat in their car in the parking lot a gang of 10-12 youths from the same high school kicked the car denting it and causing $200 damage.

Police are investigating several leads to the identity of the assailants in both incidents.

Unbelievably quiet, no screams: survivor

TINLEY PARK — Harold "Ron" Metcalf, 34, of 17415 64th Court, one of the few survivors of Friday's United Airlines Boeing 737 jetliner crash, told the HERALD what it was like.

"I've been answering similar questions by the National Transportation Safety Board, but I really don't mind. Talking about it kind of helps to get it clear in my own mind too."

"There was no advance warning that anything was wrong" recalled Ron. "We were approaching Midway and the plane was in a downward glide. Probably because I fly a lot, I noticed that the engines didn't sound trim at a point. I looked out the window and saw that we were only 400 or 500 ft. high."

"The pilot apparently gave full throttle forward and very loud engine sounds persisted until the crash. The plane reared slightly at this gunning, but then it began to descend quickly."

"It wasn't actually a crash, we hit, bumped and slid before the final impact, hitting trees, wires and then homes. The lights went out and water from somewhere slushed across my feet. It was unbelievably quiet and dark. There were no screams, but some people were beginning to move about."

Ron unfastened his seatbelt and helped the two stewardesses open the rear left door. They pushed the door open and flames began shooting up to the exit. Ron closed the door, that was not to be their escape.

On the right side was a second emergency door that was jammed. An emergency inflatable chute had worked loose and wedged the door shut. Ron struggled with the chute, twisting it back to the proper position and managed to open the door.

Once the door was open the chute that once held them prisoner in the bleak wreckage now afforded a life supporting platform until rescue arrived.

"When we managed to kick open the door, we saw that we were on a basement foundation of what had been a home. There were flames outside the plane until after I left the wreck, a matter of 15 minutes or so."

Ron said that what people had been towards the rear of the airplane were moving and exiting. The stewardesses, "Wonderfully courageous and professional" noted the demolished forward section and the utter silence there, and determined there was nothing they could do at that moment except await rescue crews. The fire then spread.

Ron, an agent for the Federal Narcotics Bureau, trained to be in control of most situations, realized as crashing was imminent, "how mad I was. Angry that I couldn't do anything to stop the inevitable crash and perhaps my own death."

Karen Metcalf curled up in an easy chair in their Tinley Park home and related her fears and ultimate relief at hearing that her husband was alive and well, one of 15 survivors of the crash which took the lives of 45 people.

"I was expecting Ron home from his Washington trip on Friday afternoon, but I was at a Chicago museum on a field trip of my own when I heard the news that a United Airlines plane had crashed into a residential area in the city."

I couldn't get home quickly enough. Shortly after I arrived, the phone rang. It was Ron's boss. I said, 'Ron was on that plane, wasn't he?' He answered 'Yes,' but added that no one as yet knew that outcome of the crash. He told me to sit tight, that he would call me the instant that he learned anything.

"I was shaking so badly, I had to be busy. So I began vacuuming the floor. Time seemed so long, but within an hour I received a call that told me Ron was safe and on his way home."

A very thorough investigation of the incident has begun. Ron was of the opinion that if the pilot had had open country, he would have set the craft down with a crash landing that would not have been disastrous. He also remarked about how well the seat belts held and that the doors didn't jam. However, this does not change matters. This event will be reviewed for some time. Hopefully, the findings will prevent future mishaps.

"Sure, I'll fly again. It's necessary in my profession" said Ron. Presently, though, he felt grateful to be home and was hoping to get some rest because he felt, "sore, stiff and tired."

Planner skips hearing

ORLAND PARK — Once again the land planner who testified before the Cook County Zoning Board on Sept. 15 on behalf of a Planned Unit Development in Orland Park applicant has failed to appear for cross examination.

Richard McKinnon, who was one of four witnesses who appeared on behalf of Capitol Federal Savings and Loan Association, was scheduled to be available at the County Board continuance Nov. 20. Capitol, in cooperation with Hillcrest Builders is seeking rezoning of 80 acres on 143rd Street just out of village limits for erection of a Planned Unit Development (PUD).

On Nov. 20 McKinnon's attorney said he was in another court hearing and could not be present. At the direction of telephone call was made to the courtroom, but Capitol's attorney said McKinnon had left for the day.

The hearing was then continued to Dec. 6 at the Civic Center in Chicago for the purpose of allowing the opposing attorneys the opportunity of cross examining McKinnon. After a wait of one hour during which time McKinnon's attorney said the planner had left his office for the hearing the County Board set another continuance.

The new hearing is set for Jan. 17 at 2 p.m. in the Civic Center. Once again it is for the purpose of cross examination of the mysterious Mr. McKinnon.

Oak Lawn's Kurt Engel matches talent with Chuck Range of the Eagle squad Friday as Sandburg bowed in defeat to Oak Lawn 68-47. The game was played in Southwest Suburban Conference competition.

Oak Lawn, Argo triumph as Eagles bow in defeat

BY TIM LUMLEY

ORLAND PARK — Friday night the Oak Lawn Spartans came to play as they defeated the Sandburg Eagles 68-49 at Sandburg.

Coach Denny Pace could only describe the game as a total lapse after such a fine victory over Lincoln-Ways last week. Another thorn in the Eagles' side was that Oak Lawn could not miss from the field, as they hit 32 out of 53 shots for a 62 per cent average.

The Eagles did have some bright spots when senior guard Bill Nelson showed he could hit from the outside as he scored 17 points. Carey Pozulp, a junior, considered to be the Eagles' most consistent player, turned in another fine game of rebounding and shooting. Pozulp scored 14 points in the losing game.

The following night on Saturday, the Eagles came to life and almost beat a very strong Argo team. The final score read 69-67 in a very hard fought offensive battle. Coach Denny Pace commented that the Eagles played great basketball for three quarters, but had their third quarter blues once again.

Coach Pace said, "The offense moved well when we got the ball down, but we just didn't want to hustle to the middle of the court to break their press." Bill Nelson had another fine night scoring 17 points and doing a good job on defense.

Pozulp once again proved to be Sandburg's most consistent player as he pulled down numerous rebounds and pumped in 16 points. Junior Greg Kunes got his first starting assignment Saturday night and poured in 10 points plus a very tough under the boards. Crane D'Loughy also contributed 14 points, but had his problems on defense.

Knights win first of season; defeat youthful Bengal squad

NEW LENOX — The Bengals of Oak Forest High School invaded the courts of the Lincoln-Way High School Knights Saturday and came very close to returning home with a victory.

As it turned out, however, the Knights were victorious, breaking a five-game losing streak which has kept Coach Bob Bounds' squad from nurturing any dreams of repeating last season's performance as champs of the South-west Suburban Conference.

In a narrow 60-56 win, Lincoln-Way capitalized on the performance of Paul Ulrich who controlled the boards like a grand master with a total of 12 rebounds.

Ulrich also exhibited keen ability in the shooting arena, taking honors as Lincoln-Way's second top scorer with a 19 point tally.

Out in front for the Knights on the score sheets was Jim Roach with a 20 point total.

Roach hit nine for 25 at field goals and two for five from the line, while Ulrich was seven for 10 at field goals and five from seven on freethrows.

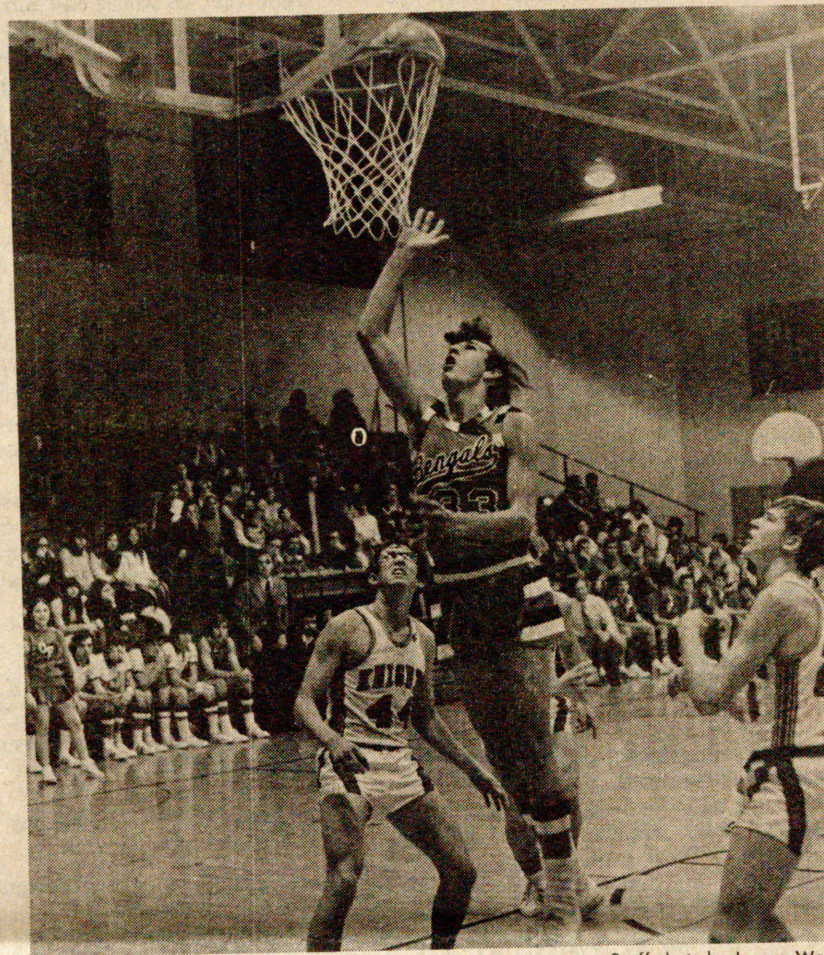

Alan Sheperd was high point man for the Bengals, also with a 20 point tally. Sheperd was eight for 13 on field goals and four for four at the line.

Sheperd was likewise high rebound man for the Bengals with six successful attempts at the boards.

Oak Forest commanded a substantial lead at the conclusion of the first period as they posted a 16 point tally compared to nine for the Knights. During the second quarter, however, the Lincoln-Way crew regained its balance and outscored the Bengals 18-12, giving Oak Forest a one point lead at the half.

In third quarter action, the Knights moved forward with greater persistence and doubled the Bengal tally, 16-8. Despite a 20-16 push by the Bengals in the final period, the Knights were established as the evening's victors.

The game was a non-conference encounter.

Celtics lose conference match, then win against Driscoll, 79-54

NEW LENOX — Percy Mabry and Roy King again proved to be top scorers for the Celtics of Providence High School as they went into Private School League action against Timothy Christian High School Friday.

The Timothy team, projected champs of the conference, waltzed out of the Providence gym with an 83-65 victory.

Mabry hit seven for 21 in field goals and four for four in freethrows for his final 18 point tally. King, meanwhile, hit six for twelve at field goals and four for four at the freethrow line.

The combined tally of the Providence powerhouses did not match the pointage of Timothy's Ned Gulbransen who grabbed a total of 36 points.

Only in the third period did Coach Pat Sullivan's Celtics show any control over the visiting Timothy squad, moving to a 22-18 lead over the visitors for the quarter. In the other three periods, however, the scoring honors belonged to Timothy.

Gulbransen also controlled the boards, gaining 17 rebounds. Top rebounder for Providence was Mabry with nine.

As has been the case too often during the games so far this season, the Celtics lost key men due to fouls. Bowing out of the game were King, Lenny Branchaw and John Buchanan.

Wildcats honored

ORLAND PARK — The 100-member Wildcat football squad and their coaches was recognized recently at the annual awards banquet at the Silver Lake Country Club.

Alex Agase, Northwestern University football mentor, was the banquet speaker as the nearly 500 persons saw Mike Revord earn the most valuable player award.

Other honors went to Mike Halper for sportsmanship; Ray Koehler, best offensive lineman; Bill Lyons, best offensive back; Grant Webster, best defensive lineman; and Joe Mansell, best defensive back.

Trophies and monograms were presented each member of the varsity Wildcats for the squad's undefeated 11-0 record and CYO City championship. The varsity Wildcats scored 345 points against their opponents this season while yielding only 20.

The Widget and the Junior squads also were honored at the annual banquet sponsored by the Wildcats Athletic Association. Brenden Green, who has led the association since its founding eight years ago, relinquished the reigns to Frank Revord. Ray Koehler will be vice president.

Wildcat coaches include Bob Price, head coach; Dan McGrath, assistant; and Bill Barker, assistant.

Honored guests at the event included Orland Park Mayor Melvin Doogan, Father Frank Coyle and former Chicago Bear great Ed Sprinkle.

A plug for easier starting in colder weather.

Remember the mornings last winter when you turned the ignition key and nothing happened? If your neighbor wasn't around to help, you might have waited and waited for the service station truck. This year you can save time and money with an easy-to-use electric starting aid.

There are several types to choose from, and all run on regular house current. Simply plug one in at bedtime, and your car's off to a quicker start in the morning.

One combination—a tank-type preheater and trickle charger—can have the effect of a heated garage for your engine and battery. The tank-type unit fits outside your engine and heats and circulates the coolant.

The trickle charger both warms your battery and keeps it at full charge.

Another kind—a freeze-plug engine heater—replaces the freeze plug in the engine block. If you're buying a new car, your dealer may offer this as an option.

There are several other kinds of effective electric starting aids, too. Your auto service station or supply store can tell you which devices are best suited for your car.

Letters to the Editor

Editor:
In your paper last week I read the saddest Christmas story I have read in years. In my minds eye I could just picture "Little Matchboy Pauly" standing alone in the cold, drooling for a martini, while inside everyone was enjoying the Christmas Festivities. All because the city "fathers" (bless their little hearts) would not allow him to use tax dollars to pay for his tickets to the Christmas party.

Now I grant you that all the other employees, including fireman, policeman, public works employees and office staff have a choice of paying for their tickets out of their own pocket or staying home, but as long as there is all that tax money laying around to be used for expense accounts and such, I don't believe Mr. Pauly puts himself in the same category as the "working staff".
I realize this kind of egotism is a little hard to swallow, but fellow taxpayers, remember it's Christmas. Mr. Pauly says "he'll be damned if he's going to pay for it out of his own pocket", and while I hate a pouter, I'm a sucker for a sad Christmas story. By God, I'll buy the first olive, who'll pony up for the gin.

ORLAND PARK — The Palos-Orland Swim Association age group swimmers began their winter season with an impressive win over the Barracuda Swim Club at Evergreen Park High School on Thursday, Dec. 7. The POSA youngsters, ages 6 to 18, swamped their opponents 342 to 213.

The blue ribbon winners for POSA in the individual events were as follows: Jenny Bozich, 8 and up girls; Dave Bremer, 8 and up boys; Kim Marousek and Joe Bozich in the 9-10 age group; D. Schmidt for the 11-12 boys; Rick Roach, 13-14 boys; and H. Miller, 15 to 18 girls.

In breaststroke: Joy Bremer for the 8 and up girls; Chris Yates, 9-10 boys; Ron Brackenbury, 11-12 boys; and Rick Andrew for the 13-14 boys.

Martha Jahn and Cliff Price captured first place in the 9-10 50-yard freestyle while Frank Bozich, Rick Andrew and Becky Bozich won in the individual medley.

Backstroke: 8 and up girls, Lauri Andrew; Dave Bremer won for the 8 and up boys; Chris Yates and Martha Jahn for the 9-10 group; Becky Bozich and Rick Roach in the 13-14 group; and H. Miller for the 15-18 girls.

In Butterfly: Jenny Bozich, 8 and up girls; Kim Marousek, 9-10 girls; Joe Bozich for the 9-10 boys; Frank Bozich, 11-12 boys; and Doug Hackel for the 13-14 boys.

Other swimmers who helped the above mentioned ones win their medley and free relays were: Kathy Mate, Glenys McDonnell, Jean Richmond, Mike Bozich, Gail Konchus, Carol Palmer, Janina Szpialzk, Cindy Carter, Jim Richmond and Bill Pakosz.

The POSA swimmers will go after their second win on Monday, Dec. 18, against Riverside-Brookfield at the Carl Sandburg High School pool.

ORLAND PARK — Once again the Carl Sandburg swimming team ran into two more premium swim teams in the state last weekend in Peoria.

In the Eagles' first meet, Peoria Richwood defeated the Eagles 77-18. The only first the Eagles captured was in diving by talented Ray Zabulski. Although, Sandburg lost in all events there were many fine individual performances for Sandburg.

Coach Gillberg mentioned Jeff King, breaking his best time in the 50-yard backstroke; Dave Prosen broke a minute in the 100-yard backstroke, Rick Hackel doing the best time of his life in the 200-yard freestyle.

Eric Nelson and Ken Koldenhoven also did fine jobs in the 100-yard breaststroke and 100-yard freestyle for Eagles.

Coach Gillberg said, "All the boys bettered their best times which should help when the state meet rolls around."

In the Peoria Central meet, it was more of the same as Peoria thumped the Eagles 76-19. One big bright spot for the Eagles was Dave Prosen recording one of the best times in the state in the individual medley. Prosen also looked good in the 100-yard backstroke.

Sophomore Ken Koldenhoven continued his fine swimming as he came within two seconds of the Sandburg sophomore record in the 200-yard freestyle.

Coach Gillberg commented, "The boys actually did tremendous jobs but just weren't in the same class with Peoria, a top contender for the state championship." Coach Gillberg also said he scheduled his teams against such top teams so they will be ready for the state meet, which swimming is all about.

The Eagles next meets are this Friday and Saturday nights at Sandburg against Tinley Park and Thornwood beginning at 7 p.m. It also should be mentioned that Coach Gillberg's brother will be coaching Tinley Park in what is a big rivalry every year.
